ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

The Hon. Samuel J. Fuch Requests the Mason Conference to Meet Again.

As was stated in THE LEDGER at the time, the Mason county officials and the Executive Committee met to recommend appointees for the Fourth-class Postoffices in this county, in accordance with the plan of Congressman Fuch.

The Joint Committee made recommendations in several instances where there was no contest, but in cases where more than one Republican was an applicant, the Committee declined to act, referring the matter to Mr. Fuch.

Mr. Fuch has now written to Chairman Matthews requesting the Committee to meet again after the Convention is over and to reconsider its action so far as to make recommendations for all the Fourth-class offices.

It is suggested further that if the county officials do not care to take part, that the Executive Committee alone take the desired action.

Augusta wheelmen contemplate building a large boat for their use in crossing the Ohio at that point, because of the exorbitant prices charged by the ferry.

A trusted female employee of Osborn, Hutchins & Hunt, wholesale milliners, Cincinnati, stole goods from the firm and started a millinery store of her own. The pilferings extended over more than a year, but the amount cannot be told. Rather than prosecute the unfortunate young woman the firm accepted $800 as a compromise.

Mrs. A. Inven, residing at 729 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She resorted to it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physician, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. MOST HAPPILY JOINED!

Mr. Edward Boyd of Texas and Miss Minnie McDougle of Maysville.

LEFT AT ONCE FOR THEIR HOME

The marriage ceremony uniting the Mr. Edward Boyd of Denison, Texas, and Miss Minnie O. McDougle of Maysville was solemnly pronounced by the Rev. S. D. Dutcher, Pastor of the bride's Church, and most impressively listened to by a concourse of friends yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, who came early and long remained at the home of the bride that the joys of good wishes and earnest congratulations might the more have weight and time.

The very beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDougle is just on the edge of our city's limits, setting high upon the bank of the peaceful, placidly flowing LaBelle River. The driveway in front and to the rear approaching the home are winding and serpentine, fringed with wild flowers and hedged about with sweet, blossoming trees which stand upon a velvet carpet of marbled bluegrass tinge. It is thus by nature the landscape gave such pleasure to the eyes of all as they approached the port cochure, the interior presented as beautiful a sight, for hanging, climbing, resting in every corner, on every curtain, upon the walls the lavish perfume of Cape Jasmine, pure in her petals of white, peeped from under her Elizabeth collar of waxy green, the waving, clambering honeysuckle, the cone shaped lilacs, the delicately-perfumed apple blossom, all vying in beauty, grace and sweetness to sing a wedding psalm which should echo for time and eternity the blessings to this twin gain.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the strains of the Wedding March issued from the rear hall, and like the enrapturing music made by strains of old, the mandolins and guitar blended in harmony divine, like whispering voices from regions enchanted the mellifluous tones floated out, by the strains of which the bridal party came down the steps, through the ball, into the drawing room, where were the guests and where was the altar of flowers before which the reverent divine stood to prosecute the ceremony, simple in language, brief and beautiful and most solemnly and impressively rendered.

Immediately following congratulations the bride and groom changed their wedding habiliments for traveling suits, and entering a carriage were whirled away in a perfect shower of rice and old shoes to embark upon the 4:35 train for their future home in Texas.

Mr. Boyd is a handsome fellow, in the prime of life and in the heyday of success. His positions in the business world and in society are commensurate with the rights of a well born, highly bred and intelligent gentleman.

Miss McDougle wore a very pretty white organdie, carrying a huge bunch of white roses. Her going away gown was a gray cloth, with hat and gloves to match.

The attendants were the brother and sister of the bride, Miss Anna wearing a beautiful heliotrope organdie and carrying a bunch of exquisite pink roses.

The presents were many, embracing useful and beautiful articles for the home. About seventy five guests witnessed the ceremony, and the toiles of the ladies were handsome indeed, the semi-circle of guests forming a veritable flower garden amid which the ceremony was performed.

If bright skies, a faultless day and other omens for good augurs and happiness then Mr. and Mrs. Boyd are, favored indeed, all of which THE LEDGER hopes may be theirs through a long series of years.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

A Husband Must Support His Family Before Paying His Debts.

In the case of Bela Green vs. Winfield Buckler, taken up from Robertson county, the Court of Appeals, in an opinion by Chief Justice Lewis, reverses the lower Court as follows:

First—The obligation of a husband to support his family is paramount to that of paying his debts; and such support involves the provision of a home to shelter as well as raiment to clothe or food to sustain life.

Second—Where a suit is brought by plaintiff to support a house and lot worth $650 to payment of husband's debt amounting to $130, the legal title being in the wife, and plaintiff alleging that the conveyance from husband to wife was voluntary and fraudulent; and where it is clearly established that the house and lot were paid for with $834 borrowed from bank, the bank holding the first mortgage, $100 donated by friends of the wife to her, and the balance, $734, saved by strict economy of wife out of the allowance her husband had made for the support of his family, and where the amount in controversy was not greater than what would have been required to pay rent for another home, a conveyance from husband to wife is not fraudulent within the meaning of the statute.

Third—The Court erred in such case in failing to adjudge the wife entitled to the entire proceeds arising from a sale of the house and lot, after satisfying mortgage of the bank.
